Activities to be held:

MoonBurn night racing.

Friday's nearest to when a large moon is visible.

Dates are picked according to #1 Safety. #2 Is the moon up during racing? #3 Consistency (1 race a month, minimizing impact to Beer Can as much as possible) #4 Night winds (early May isn't warm enough for our local night thermals).

Please note: Dates don't line up great with full moons in the earlier months due to all of the reasons above. Had to compromise a bit to get consistency (not leave Beer Cans with only 2 June races), and especially to not put sailors out on the lake on the most dangerous night of the year on the lake (July 3rd, the night of the Volente Fireworks).

Curious on why the dates were picked? The assessment is available here:

tinyurl.com/moonburn2020research (I've emailed Jackie a copy to attach)

Willing to test out a Saturday date in August (8/29), if sailors are willing to experience what powerboats are up to on Saturday nights during a race with low visibility (more of them + more hours for drinking). If this Saturday has another FUR for a night time event, more than happy to yield the date (I've heard there is no daytime racing in August planned).
